

Mission

Software, cloud services, networked hardware and AI-supported processes are the backbone of the digital economy – and source of highly complex liability and operational risks at the same time. IT and high-tech companies are not only responsible for their own value creation, but also for the systems, data and business processes used by their customers.

A single programming error, a weak point in the supply chain or the failure of a critical application can cause considerable financial losses – for your own company as well as for third parties. Other aspects that must be factored in are a dynamic regulatory environment (NIS-2, DORA, EU AI Act, GDPR) as well as ever more stringent contractual requirements arising from customer and investor contracts.

Your benefit

As a specialized insurance broker, we analyze the special risk landscape of IT service providers, software companies, technology and high-tech companies and use them to devise tailor-made insurance solutions. We combine in-depth industry and product know-how with direct access to the decision-makers of the relevant risk bearers.

Tailored specifically to your business model, our coverage concepts protect your balance sheet and precisely cover technical, contractual and regulatory risks – from individual policies to international insurance programs. We review your existing portfolio in terms of content and premiums, close coverage gaps, and optimize the price-performance ratio. We design contract and claims management efficiently and even digitally – if desired.
